The Volcano, Mt. Etna, in a State of Full Eruption.

ITALY.

VOLCANIC ERUPTION.
Messina, May 29.—The volcano of Mt. Etna is in full eruption. Three new craters have appeared near the town of Kandazzo at the northwest foot of the mountain. Streams of lava are flowing down the western slope. Several villages are threatened with destruction, and there is great alarm among the inhabitants.

Pedestrianism.

[Special to the Sentinel.]
Naples, O. May 28.—The 74 hour walking match between Jackson, of Toledo, and Van Praag, of this city, for $100 a side and gate money, is becoming unusually exciting. The walkers started at 7 o'clock last night.
At 6 o'clock this morning Van Praag was 11 miles behind, but had closed up four miles of the gap at 11 o'clock today, the score standing Jackson 61 miles and 1 lap, Van Praag 54 miles and 18 laps at that hour.

Hazzard.

[Special to the Sentinel.]
Anbun, Ind., May 29.—Hazzard's trial came off yesterday afternoon, but the judge deferred his decision until to-morrow (Friday) morning.
Hazzard is out of jail on $3,500 bail.

Meteorological.

Washington, May 29.—Indications For the Temperate and Oriental lower pressure, higher or stationary temperature, southwesterly winds, winds nearly to west, partly cloudy weather and local rains. For the lower lake region, falling barometer, increasing southwesterly winds, varying to southerly, warmer, partly cloudy weather, followed by local rains.

Delphos, O., May 28.—Frank Williams, a well-to-do farmer running a saw mill at Landbeck, five miles south of this city, was instantly killed this morning by the boiler exploding. Mr.
Williams was oiling the engine at the time and was thrown through the roof a distance of thirty feet, mangling the body in a terrible manner, and crushing his head to a jelly. His son, Adam, aged twelve years, who was working outside the mill was struck by a piece of timber breaking one of his legs, amputation being necessary. The mill was entirely destroyed. Allowing the water to get low in the boiler was the cause of the explosion.

WASHINGTON.

Mr. Hayes's Veto of the Legislative, Appropriation Bill.

An Attenuated Piece of "Stalwart" Reasoning.

The House Refuses to Pass the Bill Over the Veto.

Washington, May 29.—The following message from the president was delivered to the house of representatives:

To the House of Representatives: Sir:—After mature consideration of the bill entitled "An act making appropriations for the legislative, executive and judicial branches of the government for the year ending June 30, 1880, and for other purposes," I have vetoed it. It is the sense of the house of representatives which I originated, with the following objections to its approval:

The main purpose of the bill is to appropriate money to support during the next fiscal year the several dividends of the government which were appropriated exceed in the aggregate $10,000,000. This money is needed to keep in operation the essential functions of the great departments of the government, including the executive and judicial. If the bill contained any other provisions than those objected to, its approval would be denied. It embraces, however, a number of other subjects of great general interest which are entirely unconnected with the appropriation provided for. Objections to the practice of tacking general legislation to appropriation bills, especially when the object is to appropriate to an subordinate branch of the government rights to the free exercise of judgment with regard to general legislation were set forth in the special message in relation to the house bill which was referred to the house of representatives in the fall of last month.
I regret that the objections which were then expressed to this method of legislation have not seemed to congress of sufficient weight to disabuse them from this unjust incorporation of general enactments in an appropriation bill, and that my contention is still in respect to the general legislation placed before me cannot be discharged without delay to, however briefly, the necessary appropriations.
It is a constitutional duty of the government to support the government. Without respect to these objections I respectfully refer to the need for a statement of my views on the subject maintained in the debate at the advocates of the bill, and for a statement of the number of frauds which have been committed in the election of the United States, both in the state of New York in the elections of 1868 and 1872, and in the election of 1876. These frauds completely reversed the result of the election in the state of New York, both as to the choice of governor and state officers and as to the selection of members of the house of representatives of the United States.
They attracted the attention of the country. It was plain that if they could be confirmed and repeated with impunity by the government, it was impossible. A distinct and decided effort in opposing the passage of election laws has been made for a long time, but the result of this form of government was comparatively a failure in large cities. To meet these evils and to prevent these ordeals, regarding congressional elections, the United States, by the adoption of the forty-fourth congress, passed a law which prohibited the states from holding electoral colleges in which no voter had any voice in the election of members of the house of representatives.
The framers of those laws have not been disappointed in their results. In the large cities, under their provisions, elections have been peaceful, orderly and honest.
The opponents of these laws have failed to prove that they are

The committee would command to other parts of the country and to other cities this remarkable system developed through the agency of the best local and federal authorities, acting in harmony for an honest purpose. In no portion of the world, and indeed nowhere else, has there been an expression of the like in all the forms of law, but there has been a more complete and thorough illustration of republican institutions. Whatever may have been the previous habit or custom of electing in those cities, however, they may conduct them in the future. The great body of the Congregational Summary.

Wednesday, May 29.—SENATE.—The amendment to the college bill making subsidary equal legal tender for $10 instead of $20 was adopted. The bill was passed as amended. Mr. Calhoun of Missouri offered a military bill.

The bill for ascertaining the result of presidential electoral votes was rejected, ordered printed and recommitted. The bills to the removal of cases from the state to federal courts came up, but the republicans refused to vote and passed up the time-honored motions.

District of Columbia was considered with adjournment.

THE Gazette this morning at tempts to make some capital out of the fact that the city officers of Fort Wayne are paid larger salaries than those of Lafayette. This is as it should be. Fort Wayne is a much larger and more important city than

Lafayette, and the duties of her officers are from 25 to 50 percent greater than those of the Lafayette officers.

The Gazette also says:

The city civil engineer is getting the same salary now as when city orders were quoted at thirty-seven cents. The street commissioner lists. The salary of both is exorbitant.

This statement is false. In the first place city orders were never quoted at 37 cents or any such a figure. In the next place the salaries of the street commissioner and city civil engineer have been reduced each several hundred dollars from what they were three or four years ago.

Again, the Gazette criticizes the council for reducing the pay of "laborers men" in the engine house.

The pay of these men was, in fact, only equalized. Some of them were cut down, and others were increased, the object being to grade the pay of each man in proportion to the amount of work performed. The Gazette's criticism is entirely unwarranted by the facts.

THE Ohio republicans yesterday met in convention at Cincinnati, and nominated CHAS. FOSTER for governor, ANDREW HICKENLOOPER for lieutenant governor, W. W. JOHNSON for judge of the supreme court, GEO.

K. NASH for attorney general, JOHN

F. OGLEVEY for auditor of state, JOSEPH

TURNER for treasurer of state, and JAMES

FULLINGTON for member of the board of public works. FOS-TER'S majority was only six, the convention being very evenly divided between him and TAFT. This is virtually a victory for JOHN SHERMAN, as

TAFT represented the GRANT strength in Ohio. FOSTER's record is that of a conservative republican, and he was hostile to GRANT's administration during its existence. The programme is to elect FOSTER governor, send GARFIELD to the senate, nominate JOHN SHERMAN for president and place TAFT on the shelf alongside of STANLEY MATTHEWS.

The archive is a very good one—on paper—but if the democrats nominate a strong ticket, on a good platform, they will upset all of these plans. The republican platform lays particular stress upon the resumption of specie payment (here SHER-MAN'S hand is visible) and waves the blue shirt vigorously.

the chief did not call at this office and make an explanation of the facts. If his brother-in-law, the city editor of the News, violated a promise made to the chief, one would imagine that the latter's indignation would be something terrible to behold.

The chief, however, has managed to contain himself thus far.

The Gazette, in the course of its article, uses the following language, which we heartily endorse:

There is such a thing as a reporter being zealous in his search for news, the result of which is frequently disastrous to itself-takers. It is virtually aiding criminals to escape, and no conscientious reporter will be guilty of it. It seems that this is the only one in the state where such tricks are resorted to. It reflects no credit on the journal practicing it, as it is by no means a legitimate "scoop," and should be termed "guerrilla reporting."

In this instance, the SENTINEL pursued a course long since adopted by the Gazette, and the sooner the News ranges itself in the same line, the better will be the chance of capturing criminals.

In the local columns of the Gazette this morning will be found an account of a robbery that happened on Monday. One hour after the robbery a Gazette reporter was in possession of the facts, but kept it quiet, that the suspected thief might be captured.

This was at the request of the officers, to whom the reporter had spoken about it, and who, yesterday, released him from his promise of secrecy. This course is pursued by the journals of all large cities, and Fort Wayne is no longer a country village.

One of the first principles of journalism is to keep faith with sources of information, and an aid—not a haracter to the detection of crime and criminals.

The Gazette says that it long ago adopted this course.

Wednesday, May 28.—SENATE.—The amendment to the coinage bill making subsidiary coin legal tender for $10 instead of $20, was adopted. The bill was passed as amended. UNSCRUPULOUS JOURNALISM.

The Gazette, of this morning, defames CHIEF SMITH from the criticisms passed upon him last evening's SENTINEL, saying that he was not guilty of intentional deception, but was the victim of a breach of faith on the part of the city editor of the News. If that is the case it is singular that the chief did not call at this office and make an explanation of the facts. If his brother-in-law, the city editor of the News, violated a promise made to the chief, one would imagine that the latter's indignation would be something terrible to behold. DAVID DAVIS.

Press Comments and Interviews on His Presidential Prospects for 1880.

[Logansport Pharos.]

David Davis is beginning to be formidable as a presidential candidate.

—Fort Wayne Sentinel. Where is the boom?—Indianapolis News. At Fort Wayne, of course.

[Terre Haute Gazette.]

David Davis is beginning to be formidable as a presidential candidate.—Fort Wayne Sentinel.

David Davis is not beginning to be formidable as a presidential candidate and never will be. If David Davis had eschewed politics for a single month, refused the senatorial election from Illinois and kept his seat on the supreme bench, he would have been chosen as the odd judge on the electoral commission instead of Joe Bradley, the eight to seven would have been reversed, the returns of the disputed southern states would have been inquired into and looked behind and Tilden instead of Hayes would have been president. Democrats owe David Davis a debt of ingratitude and if he lives long enough he will have abundant opportunity to collect it.

[Interview in Indianapolis Journal.]

A few leading democrats who were casually encountered yesterday by a Journal reporter in the course of his wanderings, were sounded as to their views upon the mooted condition of democrats and nationals in the next presidential campaign, with the name of the Hon. David Davis, of Illinois, at the head of the ticket. The opinions expressed are given in the following interview:

Hon. I. D. G. Nelson, of the state-house commission, who has long been one of the most influential democrats in Illinois, and adjoining counties, did not express himself favorably to the aspirations of the colossal statesman of Illinois, David Davis. He may be a great man in some senses, but he is not a great statesman or politician. I don't think he would be of much account as a presidential candidate, and it is scarcely probable that he would be able to impress himself upon the democratic convention. A coalition between the nationals and the democrats may, however, be within the range of probability. Even hard money democrats might be persuaded to consent to it as the only means by which the republicans can be wholly driven from power. A good many people think that Tilden may be again the most powerful candidate in the convention, but the opposition to him will be very determined. There are some leading men in our part of the state who knew could never be induced to vote for him again.

Hon. William Fleming, also of Fort Wayne, the present state treasurer, looked at the matter in a very practical light. He said: "I can't tell what strength Mr. Davis may present. He is the favorite candidate of the Detroit News, and my impression is that he might, if nominated, carry Michigan for the democrats better than any other man. Perhaps he could also carry Illinois, and I suppose Indiana may be put down as certain.

Reporter—Whoever may be the democratic candidate?

The case of Mary T. R. Foulke vs Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad, which has been held under advisement by Judge Kibbey of the Wayne circuit court for several weeks, has just been decided in favor of the plaintiff. Big peach crops are reported to the Philadelphia Times from Delaware and New Jersey. This is cheering news and it is to be expected that early preaches will soon be in the market at low prices, not over $2.40 per pair.

Mrs. Heater Danforth, of Franklin, Ind., procured a decree of divorce from her husband a few days ago, and before leaving the court room waited on the judge's desk with Mr. Edward Brown, and the two were made one in less than five minutes after the decree was granted. This knocks Vanderbilt's fast time clean out of sight, and for business in the first degree, has no parallel.

An inhuman brute named Wm. H. Widner was recently arrested at Anderson, Ind., for the crime of incest upon his sixteen-year-old daughter, who swears that her father has forced her to comply with his wishes for three years past. A younger daughter aged twelve swears that she attempted her ruin ten days ago, and her physician testified that she was horribly mangled. Hanging is rather mild for such a monster.

NORTHERN INDIANA NEWS.

Thos. J. Brady has transferred the Muncie Times to John C. Eiler and W. W. Brady, who will, under the firm name of Eiler & Brady, continue the Times in all its republican brightness.

Owen McAleary, of South Bend, an Irish laboring man, attempted to murder a fellow-workman named Ed. Gillen, Monday evening. He stepped out of an alley as Gillen passed and fired a revolver at him at a distance of a few feet. Gillen was seriously, though not fatally wounded. McAleary surrendered himself to the authorities and is now in jail. A dispute about the possession of some household furniture caused the attack. McAleary is about sixty years of age.

Walkerton, in St. Joseph county, is having a first-class scandal, in which Dr. J. W. Arlington, a prominent citizen and practitioner, having also been the greenback nominee for state senator, is the principal sufferer. Several affidavits, a newspaper card of denial, a knock-down and a $5,000 law suit are the results thus far. The doctor is said to have had criminal intercourse with a female patient in his office, which resulted in a hair-lifting unpleasantness with his wife, the whole of which was "given away" by a neighbor who heard the rumpus. Bully for Walkerton. She is getting metropolitan in her make-up.

Hard on the R. & O.

The B. & O. folks have a notion to buy the Michigan & Ohio Railroad bed and build a branch road to Bryan.

—Defiance Democrat. The above company has more roads now than they can manage successfully. It would be more sensible if there was an effort made to get business for the roads now under control of this corporation.

If the Wabash and B. & O. Railroad road would make connection with their passenger trains at Defiance, it would be a great accommodation to the traveling public.—Democrat. Yes, but the B. & O. is not that kind of a road. It accommodates no one—unless it is done through mistake.

San Francisco, May 28.—While boreing the Michigan & Ohio Railroad bed and build a branch road to Bryan.—Defiance Democrat. This road does drag longer trains than any other road west line, but then the merchandise is so long that the trains prefer short trains and quick time.

All of the above we clip from last week's edition of the Garret Herald. There is evidently something wrong in Garret, and the quicker the B. & O. R. R. hustles around that way and "sees" the Herald the better it will be for the B. & O.'s future prosperity and eternal salvation. All the railroads in the United States combined couldn't stand up to that kind of a game very long.

A Conundrum.

The following postal card was received to-day:

ATTRACTING MUCH ATTENTION.

Mr. Price—Yes; this state is counted as reliable, whoever may be nominated. Michigan, Illinois and Indiana, with the south, would be enough. I don't mean to say that I look upon Mr. Davis with any great favor, but he is in some respects a strong man. His ability to obtain the nomination is, however, very doubtful.

JOE BRACKENRIDGE

Sentenced to Two Years in the Penitentiary.

The Case Decided Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday morning's Indianapolis Journal said:

Judge Gresham has ordered Joseph Brackenridge, who pleaded guilty in January last, to embezzeling letters while a clerk in the Fort Wayne post-office, to appear forthwith before him for sentence, which was suspended at the time of the plea to give him opportunity to petition for executive clemency. The court is of opinion that it has waited long enough in the premises.

In response to this order, young Brackenridge appeared before Judge Gresham, at Indianapolis, yesterday afternoon, and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. It will be remembered that young Brackenridge was employed in the postoffice and was arrested last August on a charge of rifling registered letters, which he admitted, confessing to the abstraction of sums aggregating a considerable amount. He gave bond for his appearance, and afterwards raised the money and made restitution to the government of the full amount taken, so far as it could be estimated. Much sympathy was expressed for his venerable father and his estimable relatives, and petition to the president for his pardon was very generally signed.

Sentence was suspended pending the action of the executive, but no pardon came, and sentence was pronounced yesterday accordingly. The case is a very sad one in every respect. The young man will be taken to prison at once, but it is expected that the president will pardon him out before his term expires.

BREVITIES.

Sol. Buyless says he is an assistant conductor. The first conductor starts the train and he stops it.

Miss Emma Crary, of Goshen, sister of Mrs. J. G. Bauder, of this city, is recovering from a dangerous illness.

Goshen Democrat: Mr. J. G. Bauder, of Fort Wayne, was in town a few days last week, with the family of R. G. Crary.

Geo. D. Crane, D. L. Harding C. Boseker and Levi Griffith, delegates to the grand lodge F. and A. M., have returned.

JOE BRACKENRIDGE

Sentenced to Two Years in the Penitentiary.

The Case Decided Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday morning's Indianapolis Journal said:

Judge Gresham has ordered Joseph Brackenridge, who pleaded guilty in January last, to embezzling letters while a clerk in the Fort Wayne post office, to appear forthwith before him for sentence, which was suspended at the time of the plea to give him opportunity to petition for executive clemency. The court is of opinion that it has waited long enough in the premises.

In response to this order, young Brackenridge appeared before Judge Gresham, at Indianapolis, yesterday afternoon, and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. It will be remembered that young Brackenridge was employed in the postoffice and was arrested last August on a charge of filing registered letters, which he admitted, confessing to the abstraction of sums aggregating a considerable amount. He gave bond for his appearance, and afterwards raised the money and made restitution to the government of the full amount taken, so far as it could be estimated. Much sympathy was expressed for his venerable father and his estimable relatives, and a petition to the president for his pardon was very generally signed.

Says the Petoskey Democrat: Last Saturday forenoon, J. M. Methane, the superintendent of this division of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad, came into this station on a hand car, having traveled the entire distance from Grand Rapids in that manner, with the different section hands along the route. This is the way he takes to inspect the track and see that everything is in good shape, going over the road twice each year.

Toledo Blade: The new Wabash & Erie freight line seems to be gathering up an extensive business, about fifty loaded cars per day being now received and forwarded. They come in over the Wabash road and are brought to the Pennsylvania yard and made into other trains, after which they go to Mansfield over the Pennsylvania Company's road. At that point the cars are hoisted from the trucks and placed upon broad gauge trucks, and are then forwarded east over the Atlantic and Great Western.
